FOREWORD

Dear Reader,

The Covid 19 situation in India has shown considerable improvement as number of cases has gone down substantially. Various states of India are now taking steps to ease the lock down conditions which will pave the way for resumption of business and industrial activity.

Keeping the current economic conditions in view, the Reserve Bank of India now estimates real GDP growth during the year 2021-22 at 9.5% as compared to the previous year's negative growth.

The Ministry of Finance, Government of India, last month notified thresholds in New Rule 11UD for constitution of Significant Economic Presence (SEP) relevant for taxation of Non-Residents under the domestic law and a new Rule 11UAE for computation of 'Fair Market Value' of the consideration for the purpose of computation of capital gain on sale of Business on 'Slump Sale' basis.

In addition, further extension in dates of various compliances under Income-tax Act was also notified last month as reported by us separately.

This update also covers certain changes in GST Rules, 2017, relaxations in Company Law compliances, as well as an introductory note on newly enacted Industrial Relations and Labour Codes.

Thresholds notified by CBDT for Significant Economic Presence

Notification No. 41 dated May 03, 2021

Recently, the Central Board of Direct Taxes (the CBDT) notified the thresholds for constitution of Significant Economic Presence (SEP) in India under section 9(1)(i) of the Income-tax Act.

The Finance Act, 2018 expanded the scope of 'business connection' (i.e. taxable presence in India) under the scheme of Indian domestic tax law and introduced the concept of SEP vide Explanation 2A to section 9(1)(i) of the Income-tax Act to provide that SEP of a non-resident in India shall constitute "business connection" of such non-resident in India.

Such concept, which is based on the recommendations of Action Plan 1 of the Base Erosion and Profit Shifting (BEPS) initiative of the OECD, was introduced to bring within the tax net, certain digital transactions which did not require any physical presence in India. In other words, the introduction of SEP marks the transition from a physical presence based taxation to an economic presence based taxation.

SEP has been defined in the aforesaid Explanation to mean:

- Transaction in respect of any goods, services or property carried out by a non-resident with any person in India, including the provision of download of data or software in India, if the aggregate of payments arising from such transaction(s) during the financial year exceeds the prescribed amount; or
- Systematic and continuous soliciting of business activities or engaging in interaction with such number of users in India as may be prescribed.

It has also been provided that the above transactions or activities shall constitute SEP in India, whether or not the agreement is entered in India; or the non-resident has a residence or place of business in India or the non-resident renders services in India. Further, only so much of income as is attributable to the above transactions or activities shall be deemed to accrue or arise in India.

As a global understanding was yet to be reached based on OECD initiative to specify the threshold limit for aggregate amounts of payments arising from specified transactions and number of users, the applicability of SEP under domestic law was deferred with certain modifications. As such, the provisions of SEP were made applicable from Assessment Year 2022-23 (Financial Year 2021-22) onwards.

Although the OECD hasn't reached any consensus on the issue yet, the CBDT has now introduced a new Rule 11UD in the Income Tax Rules, 1962 prescribing the threshold limits as under:

- the aggregate of payments arising from transaction or transactions during the financial year in respect of any goods, services or property carried out by a non-resident with any person in India, including the provision of download of data or software in India, shall be INR 20 million;
- the number of users with whom systematic and continuous business activities are solicited or who are engaged in interaction shall be 300,000.

This rule shall be effective from Financial Year 2021-22.

It is pertinent to note that the provisions of SEP are part of Indian domestic tax law and shall not prevail over tax treaty provisions.

As such, non-resident entities may continue to avail relief under tax treaties entered by India, wherein, the concept of Permanent Establishment stipulates a narrower scope of taxable presence in India.

Hon'ble Tax Tribunal's Judgment that PBDIT can be taken as the PLI instead of PBIT if there is huge difference on account of depreciation in the matter of Aerzen Machines (India) Private Limited v. ACIT [TS-168-ITAT-2021(Ahd)-TP]

In a recent judgement, the Hon'ble Tax Tribunal held that PBDIT can be taken as the most appropriate profit level indicator ('PLI') instead of PBIT while working out the arm's length price ('ALP') of the international transaction entered into by the assessee with its Associated Enterprise ('AE'), if there is huge difference in the amount of depreciation claimed by the assessee vis-à-vis the comparable companies.

On the facts of the case, the assessee is engaged in the business of manufacturing of positive displacement blowers. The assessee determined the ALP of the transactions of purchase of goods and receipt of design & development charges by using Cost Plus Method ('CPM') as the most appropriate method ('MAM') and by adopting PBDIT as the ('PLI'). Transfer pricing officer ('TPO') made adjustment to the transfer price of all the international transactions by adopting Transactional Net Margin Method ('TNMM') as the MAM and using PBIT as the PLI for determination of the ALP.

Upon appeal by the assessee, CIT(A) upheld the additions made by the TPO except directing the AO to treat the rental income as a part of operating income while computing the PBIT of the assessee.

Before the Tribunal, the assessee contended that there is a huge difference in the amount of depreciation claimed by the assessee vis-à-vis the comparable companies and accordingly, PBDIT should be considered as the PLI while computing the operating margins instead of PBIT taken by the TPO. The assessee relied upon the order of Erhardt + Leimer (India) Pvt Ltd vs. ACIT [78 Taxman.com 258]. The assessee also contended that if the filter of 100% of the turnover on the higher and lower side is applied then two companies would be excluded based on much high turnover filter as compared to the assessee and only one company be selected as comparable company.

The Tribunal observed that Income Tax Rules and OECD Guidelines provide for adjustments to be made to comparability factors. The Tribunal also observed that the depreciation expense claimed by the assessee is significantly higher than the depreciation expense of the comparable companies and referred to decision of Erhardt + Leimer (India) Pvt Ltd vs. ACIT. The Tribunal further observed that repair and maintenance expenses cannot be equated with depreciation and the reasoning of CIT(A) that claim of higher depreciation implies less repair and maintenance expenses is unconvincing. Accordingly, the Tribunal held that the TPO should have taken PBDIT as PLI instead of PBIT while computing the ALP of the international transactions.

With regard to the second contention raised by the assessee, the Tribunal did not find any reasons to adjudicate the same as the Tribunal allowed the first contention with respect to the PLI as PBDIT in favour of the assessee.

New Rule 11UAE prescribed for computation of Fair Market Value of Capital Assets to be deemed as 'consideration' in a slump sale of business undertaking

Notification No. 68/2021 dated May 24, 2021

Section 50B of the Income-tax Act contains special provision for computation of capital gains in the case slump sale of one or more business undertakings. This provision has been amended by the Finance Act, 2021 with effect from the financial year 2020-21 to provide that fair market value ('FMV') of the capital assets as on the date of transfer shall be deemed to be the full value of the consideration for the purpose of computation of capital gain.

The CBDT has notified Rule 11UAE vide notification no. 68/2021 dated May 24, 2021 and prescribed the method for computing FMV of capital assets, which shall be deemed as consideration for slump sale under the provisions of section 50B.

As per the Rule, the FMV of the capital assets shall be higher of the following:

- a) the fair market value of the capital assets transferred by way of slump sale, referred to as FMV 1;
- b) the fair market value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of transfer by way of slump sale, referred to as FMV 2.

Both the FMVs are required to be calculated as on the date of slump sale.

FMV 1 – Sub-Rule (2) of Rule 11UAE

Fair market value under this sub-rule shall be determined in accordance with the following formula:

FMV 1 = A + B + C + D – L, where,

A = book value of all the assets (other than jewellery, artistic work, shares, securities, and immovable property) as appearing in the books of accounts of the undertaking or the division transferred by way of slump sale, excluding income-tax paid/refund claimed, unamortised amount of deferred expenditure;

B = FMV of jewellery and artistic work as per valuation report of a registered valuer;

C = FMV of shares and securities, to be determined as per extant Rule 11UA;

D = Value of immovable property as adopted for Stamp duty valuation purposes;

L = Book value of all liabilities as appearing in the books of accounts of the undertaking or the division transferred by way of slump sale, excluding the following amounts:

- Paid-up equity share capital;
- Dividend on equity and preference shares where such dividends have not been declared before the date of transfer at a general body meeting of the company;
- reserves and surplus, other than those set apart towards depreciation;
- Provision for taxation other than representing the income-tax paid and refunds claimed;
- Provision for meeting liabilities other than ascertained liabilities;
- Contingent liabilities other than arrears of dividends for cumulative preference shares.

FMV 2 – Sub-Rule (3) of Rule 11UAE

Fair market value under this sub-rule shall be determined in accordance with the following formula:

FMV 2 = E + F + G + H, where,

E = Value of the monetary consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer;

F = FMV of non-monetary consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer of property covered by Rule 11UA(1), such as jewellery, archaeological collections, drawings, paintings, sculptures or any work of art, shares and securities;

G = the price which the non-monetary consideration received or accruing as a result of transfer of property, which is not referred to in rule 11UA(1), would fetch if sold in the open market on the basis of the valuation report obtained from a registered valuer;

H = In case the non-monetary consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer is represented by the immovable property, the value of immovable property adopted or assessed or assessable for Stamp duty valuation purpose.

Conclusion

Through this rule, the government has provided valuation mechanism for non-monetary consideration on account of slump sale, while at the same time ensuring that in case of value of consideration falling below the FMV of the capital assets transferred in the slump sale, such FMV of the capital assets shall be deemed as consideration. In our view, this valuation methodology would force firms to make valuation at market value and would dissuade the practice of fixing consideration equal to the net worth of the undertaking being transferred under the slump sale.

REGULATORY Industrial Relations and Labour Codes

Introduction to salient features of the newly enacted Industrial Relations and Labour Codes

In order to reduce the complexity in compliance due to multiplicity of labour laws and to facilitate setting up of new enterprises and create proper environment conducive to development of business and industry in the country and for generating employment opportunities without diluting the basic aspect of safety, security and health of workers, the Government of India had codified various industrial relations and labour laws in the following enactments:

However, before these newly enacted Codes are notified for implementation, the Central Government as well the State Governments, as appropriate Governments, have to come out with the notification and also make Rules on various subjects for implementation.

While the Central Government had formulated and published the draft Rules, the State Governments have not so far formulated their own Rules. As a result, the newly enacted Codes have not been notified for implementation so far.

The following are the new Codes:

1. The Code on Wages, 2019

This was passed by the Indian Parliament in 2019 and received the assent of the President of India on August 08, 2019.

This Code is to replace the following laws:

- The Payment of Wages Act, 1936;
- The Minimum Wages Act, 1948;
- The Payment of Bonus Act, 1965; and
- The Equal Remuneration Act, 1976

a. Applicability of the Code

On applicability of the Code, no specific mention is made. The “applicability” refers to coverage and extent of application of various provisions of the Code etc. These will have to be derived from various provisions in the Code, in the absence of any provision on applicability, in the Code.

b. Definition of “Employee” “Employer”

It is more or less the same as in earlier enactments. However, it is seen that the definitions in this Code which is the earliest in the recent enactments on Industrial and Labour Laws has strictly not been followed in subsequent Codes.

c. Wage Ceiling

Wage ceiling is to be notified in respect of payment of Bonus. Neither the Code nor the draft Rules formulated by the Central Govt.

prescribe the eligibility for Bonus in terms of ceiling of wages of employees as to who will be statutorily eligible for Bonus. Section 26(1) simply states that such ceiling will be as determined by the appropriate Governments by notification. These notifications have not been issued so far.

However, the Code lays down that minimum Bonus would continue to be paid at 8 and 1/3% and maximum bonus would be paid at 20% of wages as at present.

2. The Industrial Relations Code, 2020

This Code was passed by the Indian Parliament in the year 2020 and received the assent of the President of India on September 29, 2020.

This Code is to replace the following existing enactments:

- The Trade Unions Act, 1926;
- The Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Act, 1946; and
- The Industrial Disputes Act, 1947.

a. Applicability of the Code

No specific mention is made. The “applicability” refers to coverage and extent of application of various provisions of the Code etc. These will have to be derived from various provisions in the Code.

b. Definition of “Employee” “Employer”

Comments on the Code on Wages, 2019 would more or less apply to the terms as used in this Code as well.

c. New Definitions

Because of rationalization and clubbing of various enactments of this Code, some new definitions such as “Fixed Term Employment” have been incorporated. Even here, the definition of “Fixed Term Employment” differs from the same term used in The Social Security Code, 2020. For example, the definition of “Fixed Term Employment” as incorporated in this Code, specifically provides that in the “Fixed Term Employment”, “the employee shall be eligible for gratuity if he renders service under the contract for a period of one year”. This expression does not find a place in The Code on Social Security, 2020, as a result, some conflicts and confusion may arise in respect of determination of gratuity to an employee on “Fixed Term Employment” basis.

3. The Occupational Safety, Health, Working Conditions Code, 2020

This Code was passed by the Indian Parliament in the year 2020 and received the assent of the President of India on September 29, 2020.

This Code is to replace a number of related laws lying scattered across the board and having been enacted over a significant period of time, ranging from 1946 to 1996.

This Code, accordingly, is to replace the following enactments:

- The Factories Act, 1948;
- The Plantation Labour Act, 1951;
- The Mines Act, 1952;
- The Working Journalists and other Newspaper Employees (Conditions of Service) and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1955;
- The Working Journalists (Fixation of Rates of Wages) Act, 1958;
- The Motor Transport Workers Act, 1961;
- The Beedi & Cigar Workers (Conditions of Employment) Act, 1966;
- The Contract Labour (Regulation and Abolition) Act, 1970;

- The Sales Promotion Employees (Conditions of Service) Act, 1976;
- The Inter-State Migrant Workmen (Regulation of Employment and Conditions of Service) Act, 1979;
- The Cine-Workers and Cinema Theatre Workers (Regulation of Employment) Act, 1981;
- The Dock Workers (Safety, Health and Welfare) Act, 1986; and
- The Building and Other Construction Workers (Regulation of Employment and Conditions of Service) Act, 1996.

However, considering the role and responsibility of the State Governments, this Code and Rules thereunder are yet to be notified for implementation.

Applicability

There is a peculiar definition on applicability of this Code. In sub-section 3 of Section 1, it is stated as under:

“It shall not apply to the offices of the Central Government, offices of the State Government and any ship of war of any nationality: Provided that the Code shall apply in case of contract labour employed through contractor in the offices of the Central Government or in the offices of the State Government, where, the Central Government or, as the case may be, the State Government is the principal employer”

4. The Code on Social Security, 2020

This Code was passed by the Indian Parliament in 2020 and received the assent of the President of India on 29th September, 2020.

This Code purports to achieve amalgamation, simplification and rationalization of various provisions as presently contained in various relevant labour legislations.

This Code is to replace the following enactments:

- The Employees Compensation Act, 1923;
- The Employees' State Insurance Act, 1948;
- The Employees' Provident Funds and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952;
- The Employment Exchanges (Compulsory Notification of Vacancies) Act, 1959;
- The Maternity Benefit Act, 1972;
- The Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972;
- The Cine-Workers Welfare Fund Act, 1981;
- The Building and Other Construction Workers' Welfare Cess Act, 1996;
- The Unorganised Workers' Social Security Act, 2008;

a. Applicability of the Code

The applicability of the Code is prescribed in Schedule to the Code. In terms of this Schedule, the following are the general provisions as are applicable to the Code.

The applicability is more or less the same as in the existing enactments, particularly, the following provisions are relevant:

A. The Employees Provident Fund (Covered in Chapter III of the Code)

Every establishment in which 20- or more employees are employed.

B. Gratuity: (Covered in Chapter V of the Code)

Every establishment in which 10 or more employees are employed and in addition it is also applicable to every Factory, Mine, Oil Fields etc, irrespective of the number of employees employed therein. It may be noted that the Contract Labour i.e., workers employed by or through a Contractor will also be covered for gratuity purpose. This inclusion is new in the new Code.

b. Employees State Insurance

Every establishment in which 10 or more persons are employed.

c. Definition of "Employee" "Employer"

The broad terms in which these terms are defined in the Code require careful consideration on a case-to-case basis. The definition of "Employee" differs from Chapter to Chapter i.e., as may be applicable to Provident Fund, Gratuity etc.

d. Wage Ceiling

Wage ceiling will be applicable for compulsory membership of P.F and ESI as may be notified by the Central Government from time to time. Wage Ceiling is yet to be notified by the Central Government.

The salient features of these Codes and the Rules there under would be dealt with in subsequent issue of the Corporate Update.
