DIRECT TAX

DOMESTIC TAXATION

Additional Guidelines for removal of difficulties in application of withholding tax on benefit or perquisite under section 194R of the Income-Tax Act, 1961

Income Tax Circular no. 18 of 2022, dated September 13, 2022

The Finance Act, 2022 inserted a new section 194R in the Income-tax Act, 1961 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act") with effect from 1st July 2022, to provide for a withholding tax of 10% on the value of any benefit or perquisite provided to a resident, arising from any business or profession.

The Central Board of Direct Taxes had earlier issued Circular No 12/2022 to provide clarification on some of the issues raised by the stakeholders. Certain particulars on the subject were published in the Corporate Update for June, 2022. As more clarifications were sought on some aspects by the stakeholders, the CBDT has now issued Circular No. 18 dated 18th September, 2022 containing some more clarifications as under:

1. It has been clarified that one-time loan settlement with borrowers or waiver of loan granted by banks and other financial institutions on reaching settlement with the borrowers, would not be subjected to tax deduction at source under section 194R of the Act, even though waiver or loan settlement may be an income to the Borrower. However, it has also been clarified that tax treatment of such settlement/ waiver in the hands of the borrower (who got benefitted by such waiver) would not be impacted by this relaxation.
2. It has been reiterated that if a service provider incurs some expense in the course of rendering service to a service recipient and the bill is in the name of the service provider, then the expense is the liability of the service provider and not of the service recipient. It is the service provider who gets input credit of GST included in the expenses incurred by him. If the expense was the liability of the service recipient, then GST input credit would have been allowed to the service recipient, which is not the case. Thus, reimbursement of expense is benefit/ perquisite on which tax is required to be deducted under section 194R.

However, if a service provider incurs an expense as "pure agent" under GST law, then GST input credit is allowed to service recipient and not to the service provider. In such a case, the amount incurred by such "pure agent" for which he is reimbursed by the recipient would not be treated as benefit/perquisite for the purpose of section 194R of the Act.
3. Further it has been clarified that if out of pocket expenses (reimbursement) are already part of the consideration in the bill on which tax is deducted on the entire consideration including out of pocket expense under the relevant provisions of the Act, other than section 194R, in accordance with the Circular No 715 dated 8th August 1995, then there will not be any further liability for tax deduction under section 194R of the Act.
4. If benefit/perquisite is provided in a group activity such as Business/Dealer conference in a manner that it is difficult to match such benefit/perquisite to each participant using a reasonable allocation key and consequently, it is difficult to apply section 194R, then the benefit/perquisite provider may, at his option, not claim the expense representing such benefit/perquisite as deductible expenditure for calculating his total income. If he decides to opt so, he will not be required to deduct tax under section 194R.

5. Where a company has complied with provisions of Section 194R and has deducted tax on the value of car gifted to its dealer, the dealer can get depreciation benefit on the gifted car if he has included this benefit as income in his return of income, The value of such benefit will be deemed as "actual cost" for the purpose of depreciation under section 32.
6. In order to remove difficulty, it has been clarified that Section 194R shall not be applicable on benefit/perquisite provided by, an organization in scope of the United Nations (Privileges and Immunity Act) 1947, an international organization whose income is exempt under specific Act of Parliament (such as the Asian Development Bank Act 1966), an embassy, a High Commission, legation, commission, consulate and the trade representation of a foreign state.
7. Tax under Section 194R of the Act is not required to be deducted on issuance of bonus or right shares by a company in which the public are substantially interested as defined in clause (18) of section 2 of the Act, where bonus shares are issued to all shareholders by such a company or right shares are offered to all shareholders by such a company.

Note:

No specific clarification is provided in the circular regarding applicability of section 194R on issuance of bonus or right shares by unlisted companies.

However, in our view, similar treatment under section 194R should also apply to the bonus or right shares issued by an unlisted company to its shareholders.

CBDT Notification on Recomputation of Income for earlier claim of Surcharge and Cess

CBDT Notification No. 111/2022 dated September 28, 2022

Prior to the Finance Act, 2022, a contentious issue existed as to whether, cess was an admissible business deduction. Although various High Courts had held that cess is an allowable deduction under Section 40(a)(ii) of the Act, the Government neutralized such decisions by introducing an Explanation 3 to Section 40(a)(ii), by Finance Act, 2022. In terms of such explanatory amendment, cess shall be inadmissible as a deduction with effect from Assessment Year 2005-06 (Financial Year 2004-05).

As this amendment applies to returns filed for prior years as well, the Government had also laid down the necessary framework [Section 155(18)] to facilitate re-computation of taxable income for past years, wherein, such cess had been claimed as a deduction. The Central Board of Direct Taxes has now notified a new Rule 132 of the Income-tax Rules, 1962, wherein the detailed procedure to recompute such taxable income has been provided. Brief highlights of this notification are as under:

1. The Assessee shall electronically furnish an application in Form No. 69 to prescribed authority requesting recomputation of income for previous year without allowing its earlier claim of 'surcharge' and 'cess'. Such application is required to be made on or before March 31, 2023.
2. The tax officer shall on receipt of Form No. 69, recompute the total income of the said year by amending the relevant order and issue a demand notice. Such notice shall specify the amount of tax (including interest) payable and the time limit for making payment.

Furthermore, if such recomputation has an effect of modification of carried forward losses, unabsorbed depreciation, MAT credit or AMT credit, resulting in tax payable for future years, the resultant tax payable for future years shall also be factored in the demand notice.

3. Thereafter, the Assessee shall make payment thereof and furnish details of such tax payment in Form No. 70 within 30 days from the date of payment.

However, it is imperative to mention here that the Finance Act, 2022 has also provided that a claim of deduction of 'surcharge' or 'cess' shall be deemed to be under-reporting of income under Section 270A(3) attracting penalty of 50%. However, if the Assessee follows the aforesaid procedure to withdraw its claim of deduction and pay the requisite tax including interest, it shall not be regarded as under-reporting of income.
